The CWA Infrastructure Access Charge comes directly from the San Diego County Water Authority (CWA) to cover their infrastructure costs.

The Readiness to Serve charge varies with the size of the meter. It pays a portion of the fixed cost of operating the system. Large meters pay more because they place greater demand on the system and require larger reservoirs, pumps and pipelines.

The Water Usage Charge (Total Rate) is a combination of the CWA rate and the VID rate.

① CWA's rate pays for water purchased from the San Diego County Water Authority.

② VID's rate covers the cost of local water, operation and maintenance costs.

On the reverse side of your bill, you will find important information, such as District business hours, payment options and instructions on how to read your meters.
